

“Best industry event I’ve ever attended!”
“The only comprehensive insurance medicine course”
“Expert presentations by excellent teachers”
“Great networking. Workshops were an ideal size.”
“Best collegial, informative & accessible speakers”

Dear Colleague:

The Triennial Course in Insurance Medicine offers an outstanding educational opportunity for experienced physicians, RNs, and underwriters who wish to enhance their practical medical underwriting knowledge. The course features a faculty comprised entirely of experienced medical directors who present an intensive, weeklong series of small group workshops that focus on each of the important areas of insurance medicine.

Throughout the three decades of the Triennial’s existence, attendees have been consistent in their praise of this course’s content and practical value, and the comments noted above are only a small sample of the many favorable remarks offered by attendees on evaluation forms from the Triennial Course in 1997.

Underwriters who have had the opportunity to attend recent Triennials have found it to be a highly worthwhile educational opportunity. And Triennial 2000 will feature some new workshops and platform presentations even for those of you who were there in ‘97.

For your interest, the full program schedule and details of the faculty and learning objectives for every talk and two-hour workshop are being included with this mailing. We hope you will give serious consideration to attending Triennial 2000 next February 27-March 4. Space is limited to 130 attendees in order to keep the workshop groups small, and registrations will continue to be accepted until these spots fill up.

See you there!

Rod Richie, MD & Bob Watson, MD
Triennial 2000 Co-Directors

